RE: The Mutual Building Historic Rehabilitation

Dear Mr. Wolfram

On behalf of The Christman Company, I would like to personally thank you for all of the hard work you and the members of your team contributed toward rehabilitating the historic Mutual Building into our new national headquarters, The Christman Building. As the building owner, developer and construction manager, we are extremely proud of the results we all achieved together. The project stands as a lasting testament to the power of partnerships and teamwork, and we are eternally grateful to the many fine partners, including you and your organization, who contributed to its success. Please accept the enclosed commemorative poster and photo as a token of our appreciation.

Working on a tight deadline in a downtown setting while maintaining the building's many historic elements are just a few of the many challenges we all faced. Yet we were able to complete the project on time, on budget and with zero accidents. This is not only a demonstration of your knowledge and skill, but also your ability to work compatibly with the entire project team on a common goal.

The team's efforts were richly rewarded last May when The Christman Building became the world's first and only "Double Platinum" LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) certified building, earning Platinum certification in both LEED CS (Core and Shell) and LEED CI (Commercial Interiors.) We are gratified at the amount of excitement this news has generated in the media not just for Christman and the project team but for the industry as a whole, and truly hope it will serve as an inspiration for other sustainable projects to follow.

We had not moved our corporate headquarters in 80 years, and it seems only fitting to take up residence in this now-renewed 80-year-old landmark building that is poised to take us well into the future. We are glad that you could be a part of this great adventure with us, and will long remember your contributions to its success. It would not have been possible without you and your team.

Sincerely,
The Christman Company
